FROM THE PASTOR

The Domestic Church

Before there were basilicas and other churches, Christians gathered at home. Even as they began to build large and beautiful churches, the house remained at the center of the faith. At home, they prayed as a family and the parents educated and formed their children.

That is why, to this day, in many countries there are images of Jesus, the Virgin Mary or other saints. There are candles. There are small fonts of holy water. Sometimes, something that looks like an altar is found in grandma or mother's bedroom. All of this exists to remind everyone that the family home is the domestic church, where the faith lives from Monday to Saturday.

Unfortunately, today many have lost these customs.

As pastor and pastor of St. Augustine, I am glad that the church is full on Sundays. But, for me, the next question is, "How can we help our parishioners live the faith seven days a week?"

Fathers and mothers work. The children attend school. In the year 2024, there is little time they are in the house all together. They don't have much time to be a family, a Catholic family.

I don't think it's necessary to invent a new program or more activities that separate parents from their children. I think we need to rediscover the old concept, the domestic church. With a little creativity we can use ancient traditions and modern technology together, to live the faith in today's world.

In the new pastoral year we hope to provide more resources to families to help parents raise their children and children grow in faith.

MENSAJE DEL PÁRROCO

La Iglesia Domestica

Antes de que hubiera basílicas y otras iglesias, los cristianos se reunían en casa. Aun cuando comenzaron a edificar iglesias grandes y bellas, la casa se quedó al centro de la fe. En la casa, oraban como familia y los padres educaban y formaban a sus hijos.

Por eso, hasta hoy en muchos países hay imágenes de Jesús, La Virgen María u otros santos. Hay velas. Hay pilas pequeñas de agua bendita. A veces, se encuentra en el dormitorio de la abuela o la madre algo que parece a un altar. Todo eso existe para recordar a todos que la casa familiar es la iglesia doméstica, donde vive la fe de lunes a sábado.

Desafortunadamente, hoy día muchos han perdido estas costumbres.

Como párroco y pastor de San Agustín me alegro de que la iglesia está llena los domingos. Pero, para mí, la próxima pregunta es, "¿Como podemos ayudar nuestros parroquianos a vivir la fe siete días a la semana?"

Los padres y las madres trabajan. Los hijos asisten a la escuela. En el año 2024 es poco el tiempo que están en la casa todos juntos. Es poco el tiempo que tienen para ser familia, familia católica.

No creo que sea necesario inventar un programa nuevo o más actividades que separan los padres de sus hijos. Creo que necesitamos redescubrir el concepto antiguo, la iglesia doméstica. Con un poco de creatividad podemos utilizar las tradiciones antiguas y la tecnología moderna juntos, para vivir la fe en el mundo actual.

En el nuevo año pastoral esperamos proveer más recursos a las familias para ayudar a los padres criar a sus hijos y los hijos crecer en la fe.
